

Singers and Sinfonia join up for night

A CONCERT will be performed by Fylde Sinfonia at Church Road Methodist Church, St Annes, on Saturday night.

It is a joint performance with the King Edward and Queen Mary Singers.

It will be conducted by both Peter Buckley and John Pennington, the Director of Music at KEQMS.

There are strong links between the orchestra and the choir. Fylde Sinfonia was conducted for many years by the late John Simpson, who was himself Head of Music at King Edward VII School for 37 years and the current conductor of Fylde Sinfonia, Peter Buckley, was a pupil at the school between 1974-1981. He is also a peripatetic music teacher at the school. The concert starts at 7.30pm and the main piece will be Beethoven's Symphony No.9, the 'choral' symphony.
